Cover letter

Dear recruiter

I am interested in applying for the role of a Intern Developer
I am familiar with web development languages like Javascript and PHP also on the database side like SQL. I try my best to get every skill set that is beneficial to my possible employer. However I started coding as a hobby currently with almost two years plus of hands-on code experience, the more I coded the more I fell in love with it, Seeing code on my computer screen and building awesome projects just gives me chills. As a way to pursue this dream, I started freelancing but I even wanted more out of this field so I started applying for web developer positions.

Every day I fantasize how awesome would it be working for a web development company, getting to know people with the same interests as me, motivates me, even more, to become a developer and hoping that one day I will get to live my dream. Moreover, By offering me such a position for being a Intern Developer you are guaranteed excellence not only for the company but for myself.

I look forward to hearing from you

Kind Regards
marvin
